Tips and tricks

- There are numerous options for booking Emirates business-class flights with rewards, and the one-way award rates vary based on the specific award program.
- While Qantas offers the lowest points rate, there is far more availability through Emirates.
- Emirates offers an option to upgrade to first class with miles.
- This route with Emirates is what is known as a fifth-freedom flight, which means neither the origin nor the destination is in the carrier's home country. These routes sometimes come with cheaper fares.

Step-by-step instructions

1. Visit the Emirates Skywards site and sign in to your account.
2. Select "Search flights" to find the booking portal.
3. Enter the origin and destination airports.
4. Enter the desired date, but select "flexible dates."
5. Use the Emirates award calendar to find the relevant date.
6. Transfer miles if needed (this usually happens instantly).
7. Book the flight.

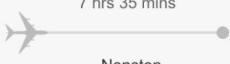

Notes:

- There are up to seven business-class seats available per flight.
- Emirates has almost twice the award space as Air Canada and Qantas.
- Air Canada and Qantas have nearly the same award dates.
- Emirates has a round-trip offer of 108,000 miles plus $250 for select dates.
- Emirates flies this route with the A380, with onboard bar and lounge area.
